DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Barre People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Barre.

Mrs. Annie Gibb, of 21 Brooklyn street, Barre, Vt., says: "For over a year I had more or less backache, brought on, I think, by a disordered condition of the kidneys. If I brought too much strain on the muscles of my back, sharp pains would take me, and I also suffered from headaches and spells of dizziness. When I overworked or caught cold it always made the trouble worse. I read a good deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and went to E. A. Down's drug store for a box. Before I had taken all the pills in this one box my back was relieved, and when I had finished a second box the pains had ceased and I felt better in every way. I am glad to recommend such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills proved to be in my case." For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CASPIAN LAKE.

Article on Summer Resort Favored by Barre People.

Greensboro, July 30.—This charming and healthful place, nestled in the Vermont hills on the shores of Caspian lake, has now become the most popular of all Vermont's summer resorts, and more than 700 persons come here every season with more or less regularity.

There are today over 100 cottages around the lake, most of them owned by widely scattered business men and professional men who come here every year and stay throughout the summer.

Picture a lake one and one-half miles wide by three miles long, of great depth, situated in the "Y" of the Green mountains, fed almost entirely by springs, over 1,500 feet above sea level, and one has Caspian lake. It is the highest body of water in the state, and from its shores one can see the highest farms in the state. The Indians who dwelt upon its shores called it "Lake Beautiful," and this place had its Indian fights and Indian legends.

The first visitor to discover the beauties of the place and the excellence of the earlier fishing was Avery G. Wheeler of Randolph, Vt., who came here regularly for more than 30 years. Only this summer he passed over the "great divide," and died where he had often expressed the hope he might die—on the shores of the lake.

Among other visitors, some of whom have never missed a season for 15 years, are Prof. Bliss Perry of Harvard, the editor of the Atlantic Monthly; the Boston school book publishers, Benjamin H. Sanborn and Charles A. Shibley; Prof. Cook of Yale, Woodruff of Bowdoin, Wescott and Hibben of Princeton, Wheeler and Lurba of Bryn Mawr and Votey of the university of Vermont; school superintendents and principals, Eliot of Boston, Landon of Bordentown, N. J., Bagwell of Adams, Mass., Hardy of Amherst, Mass., and Whitehill of White River Junction. The clergy have some noted representatives in P. M. Snyder of Rockford, Ill., C. F. Carter of Lexington, Mass., in his college days Yale's crack pitcher, George W. Morrow of Detroit, secretary of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, L. C. Smart of Burlington, Vt., and Rev. Mr. Chadley of Brooklyn. Rev. Dr. F. E. Dewhurst of Chicago, who died since last season, was one of the most beloved of the campers as well as one of the great thinkers of the country.

Many of the campers are enthusiastic golfers, and the Mountain View club rarely loses a match. Among the favorite drives are those taken to the Rolling rocks and Runaway pond. There are two rocks, each weighing more than 60 tons, so nicely balanced that the hand can move them.

Many years ago the lake has been artificially stocked with trout, and it would be difficult to find another body of water in the state which can show better results from artificial stocking. Since 1900 there have been more trout taken from this lake than any other body of water in the state, and catches of 40 to 50 pounds in a day were so frequent that in 1902 the Vermont legislature passed a law restricting the catch of each person to 15 pounds a day.

THAT MILK PROPOSITION.

Mr. Editor, Dear Sir:—I would like to say a few words in explanation of the article to milk producers of Barre and vicinity, which appeared in The Times on July 19th. I did not write this article myself, and through some misunderstanding the statement is not exactly as I intended it should be when I consented to its publication in my name. My milk, for the last six months, netted me from 35c to 4 cents per quart, according to the prices paid for butter. The value of the skim milk, 1/2 cent per quart, is not in addition to this.

This article was not written to offend Mr. Dodge or anyone else, but simply that people might not be misled by the report of my having offered to deliver my milk to the city for three cents per quart, and that they might know the reasons why I had not and would not make such an offer.

In Mr. Dodge's query in your paper of July 23rd, he had not made a fair computation. If he uses the highest price for milk quoted, 4 cents per quart, let him also use the highest price paid for butterfat, which in the last six months was 35 cents. The result thus obtained will not be unreasonable. The average price for the six months was 30 1/2 cents, as our creamery records will show.

Mr. Dodge's closing remarks I consider as an insult, not only to myself, but to our butter-maker and to everyone interested in the management of the creamery.

Washington creamery is a corporation managed by five directors who are elected by the stockholders. It is not operated by a company or an individual as a money-making concern, and in the eleven years or more in which it has been in operation, has never to my knowledge shown the least partiality for any patron, but has endeavored to treat everyone in a fair and honest manner.

In answer to his query to other patrons, I am requested to say, the creamery records will prove that many patrons are getting better results than I am.

Mr. Dodge plainly insinuates in his query that our creamery is dishonest in its management. Is this insinuation intentional? If so, I demand an apology, and if not, then what does he mean? I would like explanation.

THE STANNARD MARKER.

Will Have to Augment Appropriation to Commemorate Birthplace.

St. Albans, July 30.—It looks as if the $1,000 appropriation for the erection of a marker at the birthplace of the late Maj.-Gen. George J. Stannard in Georgia would have to be in some way augmented. The commissioners, ex-Gov. E. J. Ormsbee, of Brandon, W. A. Decker, of Georgia, and Maj. S. H. Wood, of St. Albans, have examined the house in which General Stannard was born and have found it to be worthless for tenement purposes.

Oscar F. Sunderland, the owner of the farm on which the Stannard house stands, asks a considerable price for the ground on which the house is to be built and will not set a value on a ledge near the house which would make a more conspicuous site. Mr. Sunderland gives the commissioners six months' option on the house.

The building would have to be removed for the erection of the marker on this spot, the preservation of the house being no part of the plans of the commission. The appropriation is $1,000 but in order to secure the land and then purchase a suitable marker more money than that will be needed.

CUNNING COYOTES.

Their Patience and Some of Their Other Peculiar Traits.

This is the coyote—Co-yo-tay, with all the syllables, to the Mexican who named him; "klot" merely to the American wanderer who has come and gone so often that he at last regards himself a resident stockman and farmer.

It is this little beast's triangular visage, his sharp nose fitted for the easy investigation of other people's affairs, his oblique green eyes, with their sly hint of cowardice and perpetual hunger, says the Outing Magazine, that should have a place in the adornment of scoutchons. It is notorious that the vicissitudes of his belly never bring to him the fate upon whose verge he always lives and that nothing but strychnine, and not always that, will bring an end to his forlorn career.

As his gray back moves slowly along above the reeds and coarse grass and he turns his head to look at you he knows at once whether or not you have with you a gun, and you cannot know how he knows. Once satisfied that you are unarmed, he will remain near in spite of any vocal remonstrances and by and by may proceed to interview you in a way that for unobtrusiveness might be taken as a model of the art.

Lie down on the thick brown carpet of the wilderness and be still for twenty minutes, and, watching him from the corner of your eye, you will see that he has been joined by others of his brethren hitherto unseen. He seems to be curious to know, first, if you are dead and, second, if by any chance—and he lives upon chances—there is anything else in your neighborhood that he might find eatable.

If you pass on with indifference, which is the usual way, he will sit himself down upon his tail on the nearest knoll and roll his red tongue and leer at you as one
